

Optimise Your Streaming Platform at Your Pace

As consumer demand for video continues to grow, video streaming is following suit. To leverage this opportunity, you need a platform enabling you to personalise your relationship with subscribers and control their experience. It should also reduce complexity, increase velocity, and simplify management to help differentiate your offering, while remaining cost-effective.

Building your own platform requires domain expertise, takes time, and, let's face it, is costly. Buying an end-to-end solution limits your flexibility and strips away your control over the capabilities you want. A best-of-breed, modular platform that adapts to your evolving needs is the best way to go. So go to Synamedia Go.

Seamlessly and Rapidly Add Functionality to Differentiate

Synamedia Go is a cloud-based SaaS OTT video platform that lets you grow your streaming video business with the right combination of speed to market and access to enhanced capabilities. An open and modular platform, Synamedia Go enables you to deliver linear and VOD content to any device, via any business model, with the speed, agility and flexibility you need to differentiate your offering. Synamedia Go is designed with multiple capability tiers – optional platform-specific packs, pre-integrated Synamedia OTT solutions, and preferred partner solutions – to give you full flexibility.

Enhance and Personalise an Aggregated User Experience

Anchored by our Go.Foundation platform with well-defined interfaces for integration, Synamedia Go offers core functionality to get you to market quickly. From then on, the choice is yours. If you're looking to enhance the viewing experience, personalise the user experience, aggregate content from third-party services, or further monetise your platform, use Synamedia Go's packs to add capabilities – and value – to your offering.

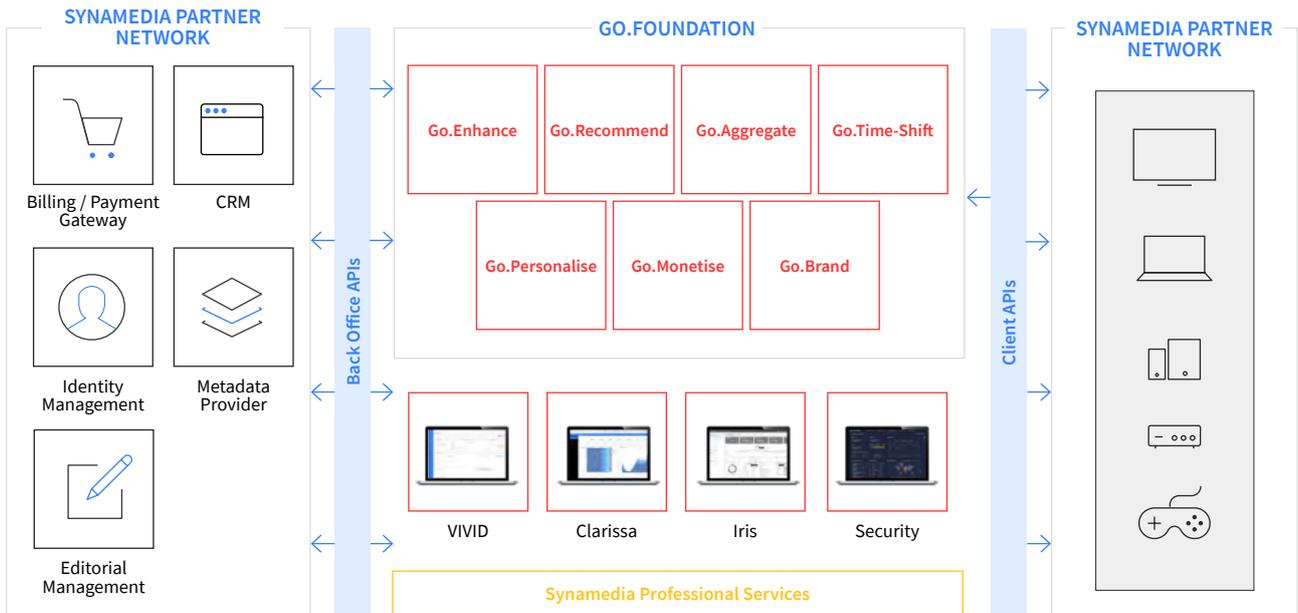

Synamedia Go also gives you access to our pre-integrated OTT portfolio. From video processing workflows and advanced data/insights to addressable advertising and security, our powerful OTT solutions, together with Synamedia Go, help you stand out even further in today's crowded marketplace. And if you want to leverage a preferred partner, Synamedia Go can integrate its solution, via our open APIs, to give you ultimate flexibility when building your streaming service.

Synamedia Go draws on Synamedia's rich video heritage. And by tapping into our innovation expertise and roadmap, the platform enables you to rapidly introduce new services that align with constantly evolving consumer behavior and market changes over time.
